FRIENDS RECALL 'LOVELY' CRASH VICTIM LIAM, 18

Motorcyclist dies in hospital four days after accident

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

POPULAR Harlow teenager Liam Brown – who was airlifted to hospital after suffering a serious head injury in a road crash – has died.

The 18-year-old, described by friends as “lovable and hard-working”, died at the Royal London Hospital four days after the accident.

Police were called to First Avenue at about 4.10pm last Wednesday following a collision between his black Honda motorcycle and a black Mini Cooper.

Liam, who was travelling home from work when the accident happened, died on Sunday morning.

Social media has been flooded with tributes to “a lovely young man” nicknamed “Biggie” who was “taken too soon”.

Floral tributes have also been laid at the scene along with cards and other items.

One tribute read: “Trying to find the right words but nothing seems to fit.

“You really were one of the funniest, kindest, most big-hearted people we have ever had the pleasure of calling our friend.”

Another read: “You are one of the funniest, kindest people I’ve ever met. I’m so lucky to have known you.”

First Avenue was closed between Howard Way and Mistley Road until shortly after 9.10pm while forensic examinations took place and the scene was cleared.

Funeral

Two fundraising pages have been set up to help cover the cost of Liam’s funeral. They can be accessed by visiting <http://tinyurl.com/hkbavoz>.

Inquiries are ongoing and witnesses to the collision who have yet to come forward are asked to contact PC Paul Fisk at the Serious Collision Investigation Unit.

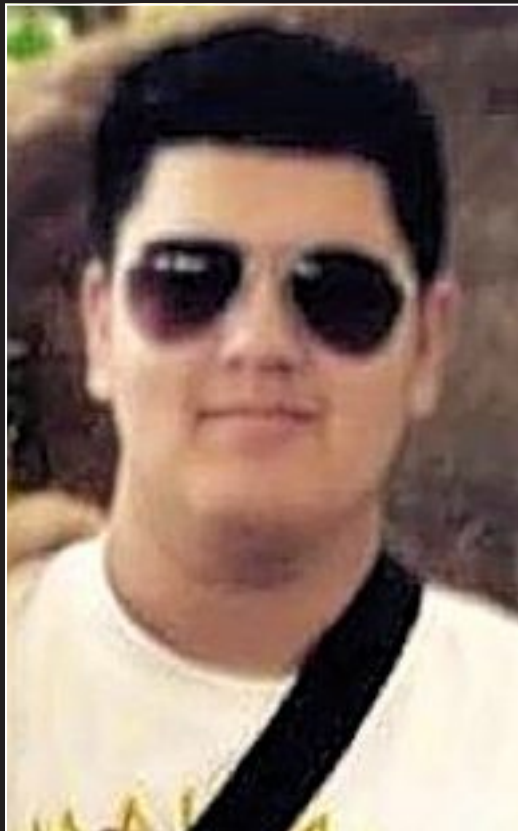

They can either call the non-emergency 101 number or email collisionappeal@essex.pnn.police.uk.

Decision day for future of county's fire service

THE future of the fire service in Essex will be decided at a crucial meeting of the county’s fire authority next week.

Members will choose one of three options to shape the role of the fire service after it was told its multi-million-pound grant from central Government, which amounts to about 20 per cent of its annual budget, will disappear in four years’ time.

Their decision could result in more than a fifth of the county’s full-time firefighters losing their jobs.

Earlier this year Essex County Fire and Rescue Service embarked on its biggest-ever consultation, to find out which of the three options had the most public support.

Responded

More than 17,000 people responded during the course of the 12-week exercise.

An overwhelming majority favoured Option Two, which would result in savings of about £6.4million and leave Harlow virtually unaffected by the shake-up. However, the number of full-time firefighters would drop from 570 to 432, while that of on-call retained firefighters would rise from 437 to 456.

The other two options would deliver savings of £8.6million and £10million, but would have a greater impact on Harlow. In both cases the crewing of the

Chair role for volunteer Edna

A COMMUNITY champion who volunteers for various charities has been named Harlow Council chairwoman for the forthcoming year.

Cllr Edna Stevens, who has been a councillor since 2007, was elected at the annual council meeting last Thursday.

Cllr Stevens, who represents the Nettleswell ward, was born in East London in 1934 and is the eldest of two children. Her family moved to Dagenham when she was five and this is where she grew up. She attended Ilford County High School and left with the equivalent of five O levels.

Cllr Stevens worked as a laboratory technician for the pharmaceutical company May and Bakers for 12 years before moving to Harlow in 1962. She then worked for 3M Research for 33 years until retiring.

Following retirement, she worked as a volunteer for a number of charities including, The Chocolate Run taking food and hot chocolate to rough sleepers in London, and the Harlow Stroke Support Group.

Her main interest is gardening and she still supports a number of local charities by collecting for them at charity car parks or holding a collection tin at a supermarket.

"You may have seen her shivering outside a supermarket on a cold winter day," said a council spokesman.

During her year in office she will be raising money for the Friends of Harlow Sculpture and the Gibberd Gallery.

Cllr Sue Livings was elected deputy chairwoman.

Police calm fears of a surge in violent crime

Positive response to 'slight' increase in reported incidents

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

POLICE have moved to quell fears that Harlow is becoming a more violent place to live and work.

While acknowledging there had been a "slight" increase in incidents involving violence when compared to last year, they said such crimes were still rare and insisted they were on top of the situation.

Already this year the force has dealt with murder, attempted murder and serious assault investigations, fueling concerns in some quarters that violence is becoming more commonplace.

But Inspector Paul Maleary, temporary district commander for Harlow, insisted this was not the case.

"Since the beginning of the year there have been a number of violent crimes in Harlow that have caused concern to the local residents," he said this week. "The fact is these types of incidents are rare."

ATTACK: Police officers at the scene of a fatal stabbing in Harlow in March. Right, Inspector Paul Maleary

"In the majority of incidents there has been a familial relationship between victim and perpetrator."

"There have been incidents where weapons have been used and in order to deal with this a number of operations have been run to identify and deal with offenders. This has resulted in offenders being arrested in possession of weapons and class A drugs."

In March residents of Holly Field

spoke of their shock after father-of-two Hassan Abdi Mohamed was found with stab wounds on a cycle path near Holly Field. He later died in hospital from his injuries and two teenagers were subsequently arrested on suspicion of murder.

Police have also dealt with a number of violent assaults across the town.

In response, more cameras have been installed and Essex Police has introduced a new online system to report crime.

Inspector Maleary said: "The numbers of recorded crimes of this type have shown a slight increase compared to this time last year. However, there is a positive element as this shows victims are engaging with the police and providing the detail we require to accurately deal with these types of crimes."

"There has also been significant success in bringing offenders to justice and Harlow CID has successfully charged and remanded a number of offenders for the more serious offences including attempted murder."

He added: "The identifying and pursuit of offenders is part of the preventative measures that Essex Police has put in place. We have also ensured that our patrols are focused on key areas."

"If residents have any concerns or information, they can contact Essex Police on 101 or, in an emergency, 999."

MP calls on businesses to be more guide dog friendly

BUSINESSES and transport providers should do all they can to make their services accessible to people with guide dogs, according to Harlow MP Robert Halfon.

Speaking after a meeting with representatives of the charity Guide Dogs, Mr Halfon called for an end to discrimination against blind and visually impaired people.

He made his comments after talking to guide dog owner Lauren Jackson, who said she had been turned away from restaurants and refused minicabs because she is blind, despite legislation to prevent such discrimination.

ON BOARD: A blindfolded Robert Halfon with Mandy Smith and her guide dog on a bus trip

To experience what it is like to lose sight, Mr Halfon wore a blindfold while he accompanied resident Mandy Smith and her guide dog Holly on a bus ride.

Afterwards he said: "I would like to urge all businesses in Harlow and the rest of the country to make sure they are welcoming to guide dog owners. No-one should be made to feel discriminated against just because they have a disability."

He added: "Having access to transport and services can make the difference between someone feeling comfortable and confident to go out alone and becoming isolated at home."

"I would like to see all buses and businesses in Harlow become more accessible for people with sight impairments and guide dogs and for those with other disabilities."

Fire service's future to be decided this week town's second fire engine would be switched from full-time to on-call.

The results of the consultation showed that 73 per cent of respondents and 68 per cent of employees favoured Option Two.

Both Option One and Option Three, which would generate greater savings but involve larger reductions in the number of full-time firefighters and fire engines, were chosen by one per cent of respondents, while the remaining 24 per cent did not support any of the three options.

Unprecedented

Essex's Acting Chief Fire Officer Adam Eckley said this week: "The number of people participating in the consultation is unprecedented. This has given us an excellent insight into what the public, our staff and partners think of our plans, and which of the three options we have put forward they prefer."

"Over the past ten years we have seen huge changes in demand for our service. Nationwide incidents have reduced by 42 per cent, and in Essex they have fallen by 45 per cent, despite growth in population and traffic in the county."

He added: "Changes are often disguised as cuts, but there are a number of important things to consider."

"We are making a £3m investment in prevention and protection measures, we have made additional savings of over £2m from support functions, and no fire stations will close during this process."

Next week's meeting of the fire authority will take place at the service's Kelvedon Park headquarters on Wednesday.

Chancellor so keen to sing praises of EU

CHANCELLOR of the Exchequer George Osborne said staying in the European Union is key to securing jobs and safeguarding businesses in Harlow.

Mr Osborne was speaking during a visit to the town yesterday (Wednesday) to promote the campaign for Britain to remain in the EU.

He was taken on a tour of Luna Logistics, a privately owned company based in Mead Park which provides business solutions to specialist high tech customers.

Created

After chatting to staff, Mr Osborne said: "There is so much going on in the European Union that is good for Harlow. Lots of jobs are being created here and leaving the EU could put these at risk. We are hearing that from a lot of different people."

"Luna Logistics is a fantastic example of a small business that was not here a few years ago but has been able to grow and employ more staff. It is the kind of business that could be affected if we vote to leave the EU. "This business is part of a European single market and I don't want any jobs to be put at risk by leaving."

He added: "We have heard a reality check from the OECD [Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development] saying that if Britain was to leave the EU it would slow economic growth and trade."

Mr Osborne was joined on the tour by Harlow MP Robert Halfon as they were shown round by chief executive Brieghe Leahy.

Petition launched to save youth aid project facing axe

Thousands sign Occasio House protest

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THOUSANDS of people from Harlow and beyond have signed a petition launched to save Occasio House from closure.

Launched by 18-year-old Jake Shepherd, the petition has gathered 3,679 signatures from former tenants, residents of the town and supporters of the facility.

"I'm so terrified that I'll go back to the way I was," said 19-year-old tenant Darren Chesterton. "There's no alternative and nowhere to go."

Darren moved to Occasio House when he was 15 years old after being removed from his father by social services.

"I lived with my dad, who is schizophrenic, in his flat. The walls were covered in mould and the place was filthy. I was severely unhappy but I didn't know any different."

"Social services came round and said 'we're getting you out of here' and I was moved into Occasio House. If Occasio House wasn't here, I would have had to stay where I was and who knows what my life would have been like."

Ridiculous

He laughed: "That's why it's ridiculous when people say 'can't you just go back home?'"

The building in Playhouse Square offers accommodation to young single homeless people with support needs and those at risk aged between 16 and 24 years old.

It is made up of 116 properties - 76 furnished studios and 40 unfurnished one-bedroom flats. In March, housing provider East Thames and Essex County Council announced they would be closing the project in September.

Will Read, 20, works full-time for food chain Nandos as well as volunteering at the St Elizabeth's Centre charity shop in Staple Tye.

He suffers from depression and says the support he received from staff at Occasio House has helped him turn his life around.

"The staff here go above and beyond for tenants and they don't get the credit they deserve. Being here gives us stability to move on with our lives."

Both Darren and Will addressed community concerns about antisocial

AT RISK: Occasio House in Playhouse Square

cial behaviour within the building.

Will said: "Yes, there has been trouble but I've seen more ambulances here for people than police raids."

What you say...

■ Emma Banks: "The foyer helped me turn my life around x I owe everything to the foyer and it's employees"

■ Mark Watson: "Occasio House has supported over 2000 young people in our community it needs to stay if we care about our young people making a successful transition to adulthood"

■ Lynne West: "I lived in Occasio House from 2004 to 2006 without this service I would have remained squatting in an empty house without support. Occasio House supported me not only with housing but also with my education, health, and social skills. I now have a degree, a good job, I own my own home and I am in a loving relationship. Without the foyer I would have none of these things"

Darren added: "I wasn't bad because of this place, I was bad because of the life I had before this place."

Detrimental

Jake, who is a Labour Party activist, launched the petition as he was concerned about the detrimental impact of the closure.

He said: "Listening to some of the testimonials from residents, the result of this proposed cut would have a detrimental effect on the hundreds of young people who count on Occasio House each year."

He added: "No one deserves to be homeless. Tormenting young people in this way is reckless from the county council and the association."

"These young people shouldn't have to go around with a begging bowl to get what they rightly deserve."

We're grateful for injunction

SIR, I and my fellow residents would like to thank Harlow Council and Essex Police for obtaining the injunction to ban unauthorised motorbike rideouts (Star, May 26).

However, might I suggest the real problem lies solely with the parents of these children who buy these bikes knowing full well they will ride them unlawfully along the highway, most probably without any insurance, road tax and MOT.

The noise we have suffered weekend after weekend is intolerable.

These bikers gather in one place and ride around the field with little or no regards for the safety of other users.

I have seen families scared to walk along the towpath for fear of being injured by these inconsiderate people.

This injunction is in no way targeting decent law-abiding motorcyclists going to work or enjoying a weekend ride through our wonderful countryside.

Perhaps it should have targeted the irresponsible parents who are surely aiding and abetting an unlawful act.

Cllr Mike Garnett

Wyldwood Close, Old Harlow

Lawbreakers are the target

SIR, Like many other Harlow residents we have been forced to listen to and watch while being unable to stop the increase in unsociable behaviour by motorcycle users in the town.

It was, therefore, with great delight that we read about the efforts of Harlow Council and the police in gaining the injunction to curb these activities.

Many people are only too quick to complain when nothing happens but is it not now the time to congratulate these bodies and individuals for their efforts in bringing about a timely and very important piece of legislation?

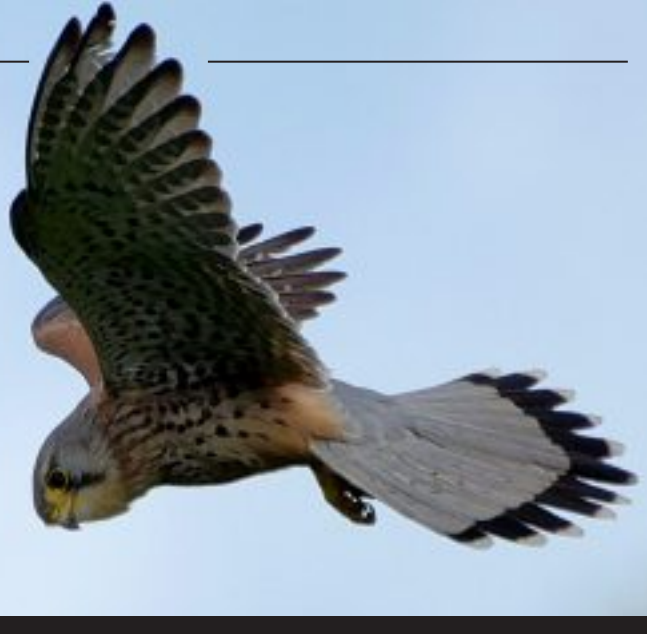

Unfortunately there are people who are still complaining about this injunction, claiming it to be unfair.

What is evident is that this injunction is aimed at people who are flouting the law and making law-abiding residents' lives a misery, not the sensible users.

■ This week's picture was taken by Stuart Searle, of Barn Mead, Harlow. "I was very lucky to catch this kestrel hunting along the River Stort behind The Lock climbing wall," he writes.

The message appears very simple – play by the rules and you won't have a problem. If you don't you will be found out and relevant action will be taken.

Come on Harlow, support the council and the police on their extremely positive actions. They have done a first class job here and deserve our backing.

Living in a dictatorship

SIR, I am not sure what Harlow Council thinks it will achieve by trying to ban groups of motorcycle riders who legally and lawfully want to meet up for weekend or memorial rides.

The knee-jerk reaction to the problem of unauthorised rides is something the council and the police could have nipped in the bud a long time ago.

I know of six teenagers who are culprits but when I spoke to a local police community support officer he told me it was down to cuts and the police did not have the manpower to do anything.

This poorly thought through ban may well infringe on human rights and may also be infringe on common law rights and civil liberties.

The police can stop any vehicle if they have reasonable grounds to do so. Council civil servants have no rights whatsoever.

I am not aware that we are living in a police or council dictatorship.

Name and address supplied

The politics of contradiction

SIR, Unsuccessful Harlow Labour parliamentary candidate Suzy Stride has contributed to a pamphlet in which disgruntled MPs and other malcontents blame Jeremy Corbyn for the party's woes.

This assertion is certainly bizarre, if not disloyal and self-serving.

Ms Stride claims that working people's interests have been replaced by ideology in the Labour Party. An ideology is a system of ideas and I am sure that Ms Stride does indeed subscribe to a system of ideas.

A politician who claims to be "non-ideological" is either ignorant or disingenuous.

Ms Stride's failure to win Harlow for Labour at the 2015 General Election may not be unconnected to the fact that she advocated slashing public services, keeping rail, gas and electricity in the private sector, retaining anti-union laws, cutting social security benefits, and continuing austerity.

If she cannot comprehend the contradiction between promoting neo-liberal policies such as these and claiming to act in the interests of working class voters, then she is not fit to be a Labour candidate.

John Wake

Price hike to park at PAH

SIR, I read in the Star that Princess Alexandra Hospital is now charging more to park in the grounds to help make up a financial deficit of £38m.

I, like many other people I have spoken to, thought parking at the hospital was run by a private contractor so where is this money going?

And what is the point of having a blue badge if you can't use it? Before long every available place you could use a blue badge will disappear unless something is done.

The report also states that charging at the hospital is against Government policy.

Brian Hood
Brockles Mead, Harlow

Re-route bus to retail parks

SIR, Further to previous correspondence regarding the lack of public transport serving the retail parks along Edinburgh Way, Arriva run three buses – the 508, 509 and 510 – between Harlow town centre and Bishop's Stortford.

They all follow the same route via First Avenue, so why can't one of these be re-routed along Edinburgh Way?

E. Richardson
Brook Lane, Sawbridgeworth

My fears were unwarranted

SIR, I was recently admitted to Princess Alexandra Hospital for surgery. Having reached the age of 72 without having to spend even one night in hospital, the prospect filled me with fear and trepidation.

On the day of the operation the consultant spent ages talking me through the procedure, telling me what to expect and doing everything he could to allay my fears.

After the surgery, which was a complete success, I was transferred to Tye Green ward where the treatment and care I received was absolutely first class.

Everyone, and I do mean everyone, went out of their way to ensure my comfort and well-being was their priority. Their cheerfulness and kindness made me feel they really did care.

I have no doubt that PAH has its detractors whose views will be different to mine but I can only comment on a personal level and extend my thanks to all the people involved in my care.

I hope this letter highlights the skill and dedication they deliver, often under extremely difficult circumstances, and how much they are appreciated.

Peter Sherwin

Thanks from wallet owner

SIR, I would like to thank the person who found my wallet last Friday, as well as the staff at WH Smith in The High who kept it safe until I could retrieve it.

It is nice to know that citizenship is still alive in Harlow. Thank you again.

Audiences sing the praises of town's festival

Celebration in music, dance and drama

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

ENTHUSIASTIC audiences brought soul to the Heart 4 Harlow Festival held over the bank holiday weekend.

The theme of this year's showcase of music, dance and drama was healthy living and featured performances from Harlow Community Choir and Harlow Rock School.

The festival started at The Water Gardens on Friday with children from six of the town's primary schools singing a medley of numbers, after which Harlow MP Robert Halfon officially launched the proceedings.

He said: "Without the festival Harlow would not be the best town to live in today."

Important

"Heart 4 Harlow has an important role in bringing our communities together no matter where they are from. It brings together people of faith and people of none. It makes our community stronger."

Bright sunshine greeted audiences attending the launch.

Town chaplain and festival organiser Robert Findlay said afterwards: "We have had a wonderful start with the children singing and their parents watching. I want to thank Water Gardens manager Beryl Murphy for allowing Heart 4 Harlow to use this space."

There were various performances on the stage set up in The Water Gardens in Friday, Saturday and Sunday, while Harlow Rock School staged a Rock The Park event in the Town Park on Monday.

Harlow Rock School co-ordinator Martin Elven said: "We would have liked a slightly bigger turnout. I think the weather may have put some people off but apart from that it went swimmingly."

"After a few technical glitches we started playing around 12.20 and carried on until 7pm. We had some of our own bands and former students with their bands."

A series of community meals are also being held in churches throughout this month, giving residents a chance to make new friends over a bite to eat.

The festival also marked the launch of Harlow Festival 2016, a diverse programme of cultural performances which will take place over the summer. It is being organised by Harlow Arts Council.

■ Details of Harlow Festival 2016 events appear on the Star website.

Midnight Walk will be a family affair for Denise

THERE are now just four weeks to go until St Clare Hospice's Midnight Walk returns to the streets of Harlow.

Hundreds of people are expected to take part in the neon-themed fundraiser. Among them will be Denise Stone, her daughter Vicki Stone and daughter-in-law Rachael Dowsett, who will also be raising awareness of motor neurone disease.

Denise, 54, from Harlow, was diagnosed with MND in August last year and started attending St Clare's day therapy group in October.

"When I was told I was being referred to my local hospice I must admit I felt petrified," she said. "I thought hospices were only for when you are near the end of your life; I had no idea they did things like day therapy. I came in for a chat with some of the staff and they showed me around – and I have never looked back."

"I just don't know how I would have managed without St Clare. I come in every Thursday and I can just be myself. You can cry and you can laugh and no-one judges you. You haven't got to put on a brave face like you might do in front of your family."

Denise, who will be pushed in a wheelchair by Vicki, 28, and Rachael, 27, when she takes part in the Midnight Walk, added: "I am so excited. I have always wanted to do it but in previous years we have been away on holiday or working."

"This year we have no excuses. I just hope it doesn't rain as there's nothing worse than being in a wheelchair when it rains!"

Rachael said: "Since Denise was

EXCITED: Denise with her daughter Vicki and daughter-in-law Rachael diagnosed with motor neurone disease St Clare has been amazing, supporting her both physically and emotionally. They have also been there for us as a whole family.

"She has met lots of lovely people and it allows her to feel safe and supported. There is always someone to support her; whether on the end of the phone or at the hospice itself, and we want to help them raise even more money so they can help even more people."

The Midnight Walk takes place on Saturday, July 2, starting and finishing at The Water Gardens in Harlow town centre. There are two distances to choose from – 5km or 10km – and registration costs £20 for adults (16 years and above) and £10 for children (11-15 years).

To register, visit www.stclarehospice.org.uk/event/midnight-walk-2016/, call Jade Clarke on (01279) 773756 or email jade.clarke@stclarehospice.org.uk.

Marathon man Mark faces 'ultra' challenge

Dad to run from London to Cambridge

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A FATHER-of-two who only took up running last year is training to complete a 100km ultra-marathon from London to Cambridge next month.

Mark Moulds, 48, of Elwood, Harlow, hopes to raise £600 for the Cystic Fibrosis Trust. The 11-year-old daughter of a family friend suffers from the condition.

"It is the distance of two-and-a-half marathons so it's a very long way," said Mark, who works as a magazine printer in Enfield. "People have said that I am mad to do it."

"We start outside the Olympic Stadium at 7am and I hope to get to the finish line in under 15 hours to classify as a runner"

"There are also joggers and walkers taking part. It is quite a new thing in the UK and people from all over the country are taking part"

"We run alongside the River Stort into Ware and we reach the half-way mark at Braughing where there is a hot food meal. There are rest, medical support and toilet stops every 10km along the way."

Mark first started running as a way of losing weight and has so far shed more than a stone.

THE RUNNING MAN: Mark Moulds with family friend Jenna Warrilow, who suffers from cystic fibrosis

"At the end of last year I booked myself on a half marathon, a full marathon and this ultra-marathon," he said. "I did the half marathon and finished in under two hours and then I completed the Milton Keynes full marathon in four-and-a-half hours. I now have five weeks to train for the ultra-marathon."

He added: "Injury is the biggest worry for me. I tweaked my quad in the marathon but it has now healed. It is also going to be hot."

Mark and his wife Sarah have two children – an 11-year-old son and seven-year-old daughter with wife. His inspiration for completing his latest challenge is to raise funds for the CF Trust.

Inherited

Cystic fibrosis is an inherited condition which causes the lungs and digestive system to become filled with mucus which can prove fatal. Half of the people with the condition do not live past 40.

Writing on his Just Giving page, he said: "I'm raising money for the Cystic Fibrosis Trust because my friend's 11-year-old daughter, Jenna Warrilow, suffers from it. Please donate, however big or small, to help find a cure."

Mark said: "I don't see many people running for them and I want to raise funds in support. I have now got £495 so I have almost reached my target."

■ Mark will be taking part in the ultra-marathon on Saturday, July 2. To sponsor him visit www.justgiving.com/fundraising/Mark-Moulds2.

Helping to increase prosperity of town

■ As MP for Harlow I work hard to help to bring jobs and businesses into the town. If our companies flourish, more residents get jobs, family finances are protected and the whole prosperity of Harlow increases.

For this reason it was really good news to hear that employment is increasing in our town – the total number of job-seeker claimants is down by 209 since two years ago.

Across the country employment is at a record high with over 31 million people in work. Average wages are also up by over 2.1 per cent which, alongside recent tax cuts and the introduction of the National Living Wage, will help hard-working families with the cost of living.

■ For a long time I have campaigned for and championed apprenticeships. Whenever I visit Harlow businesses the first question I often ask is how many apprentices do they have.

One of our biggest companies is Raytheon, currently based at Pinnacles but soon to move to our the Enterprise Zone in London Road with a £25m investment in state-of-the-art premises.

A couple of weeks ago I met some young

Raytheon apprentices in Parliament. They were outstanding and inspirational individuals, representing the very best of the future for our town.

They have achieved their apprenticeships entirely on merit, work incredibly hard, and will no doubt have jobs in Raytheon in the future.

It is another example as to why Harlow's younger generation have so much to offer.

VIEW from Westminster
by MP Robert Halfon

■ In the run up to last year's General Election, very few residents in Harlow believed the Government would keep its promise to hold an EU referendum.

Whatever one's view, at least the Prime Minister has kept his pledge and we now have an in-out EU referendum on June 23.

No-one is imposing the decision on us, only Harlow residents and the British people will have their say.

Whether Star readers are in or out, please go out and vote as this opportunity is probably the only chance we will have for many years to come.

We are sovereign and will make the best decision for Harlow and our country.

Attacker wins court bid to cut jail term

Judges agree 14-month sentence was too harsh

Court Reporter

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A MAN jailed for assaulting his friend and his girlfriend when he saw them in a clinch has had his sentence cut by four months.

Tawakal Hussain Shah, 46, of Ladyshot, Harlow, was sent to prison for 14 months at Ipswich Crown Court in March after admitting two charges of assault causing actual bodily harm.

But he lodged an appeal against the sentence, arguing it was too harsh.

And on Thursday judges at the Court of Appeal in London agreed and reduced the length of his sentence to 10 months.

The court heard Shah told police he saw red when he saw the pair in an embrace.

Friend

Mr Justice Goss, sitting with Mr Justice Popplewell, said Shah first assaulted his girlfriend by knocking her to the ground and then, seconds later, attacked his friend.

"He caused his victim to have a seizure as he suffered from epilepsy, although this was unknown to Shah," said the judge.

The court was told both victims were left injured and badly shaken. Shah's girlfriend had to have her nose reset as the assault complicated a previous fracture.

After being arrested, Shah said he lost the plot when he saw the pair engaged in "romantic activity".

All three had been drinking together quite happily shortly before the flare-up and Shah said he had "lost his temper in a domestic setting".

After hearing the evidence, the judges ruled a 10-month jail sentence was "appropriate".

Royal day out for hospice pair

TWO of St Clare Hospice's army of volunteers were invited to a garden party at Buckingham Palace in recognition of their years of service to the charity.

Margaret Pomfrett and Gill Richardson, who both live at North Weald, have notched up more than 30 years between them.

Margaret started as a street collector and then helped with St Clare's weekly lottery before becoming a volunteer receptionist in 2006.

"I was so delighted to be invited to the Queen's garden party, especially this year when she celebrates her 90th birthday," she said.

Retired nurse Gill first became involved with St Clare when she was asked to join the local fundraising group and assisted as the treasurer for two years. In 2005 she became a volunteer driver for the day therapy service, transporting patients to the various therapy groups held at the hospice in Hastingwood.

Margaret and Gill were driven to the party in style by St Clare supporter Derek Oakley, who works for funeral directors Daniel Robinson and who offered to take them in a limousine.

■ St Clare Hospice will be marking Volunteers' Week (June 1-12) by holding 'thank you' parties and afternoon teas for its helpers.

The wonder of words

ORCHARD is the favourite words used by children in Essex, according to a new report.

The Oxford University Press studied more than 120,000 short stories which were submitted to a competition run by Radio 2 disc jockey Chris Evans for children under the age of 13.

The research provides an insight into the lives of British children and their imaginative use of the English language.

A team of experts from Oxford University used special computer software to analyse all the entries and the results showed that across the country the most frequently used word in the stories was refugee.

Star Wars, Shakespeare, Tim Peake and social media also appeared regularly.

But here in Essex, orchard topped the list of the 10 most frequently used words, along with fairground, porthole, rum and sculpture.

Vineeta Gupta, head of children's dictionaries at Oxford University Press, said: "The children writing in this year's competition have demonstrated a sophisticated use of language in their storytelling."

"They have used rich descriptions to convey emotion and have produced powerful stories that resonate with the reader."

Community stalwarts praised for effort

COMMUNITY stalwarts have been praised by Harlow Council for their commitment to the town.

At the authority's annual council meeting last Thursday, members of the community were honoured with civic awards.

The first winner was Royal British Legion Harlow branch President and former Post Office worker Charles Smith, who was nominated by Cllr Edna Stevens.

Mr Smith, who was unable to attend the ceremony, was praised for his fundraising efforts and dedication to the legion.

Cllr Stevens said the award was a way of giving thanks to a "very special man".

David and Jeanette Roberts were honoured for their fundraising efforts for St Clare Hospice.

"They have helped to raise the profile of this wonderful hospice and many have benefited greatly from their excellent efforts," said Cllr Clive Souter, who nominated the couple for a civic award.

The third award was presented to Christine Goodman. Christine had been a PCSO for 11 years before budget cuts meant she had to leave in May.

Cllr Sue Livings said of Christine: "You would be quite correct in saying that this is a paid position but this lady took the whole position to another level putting her love, soul and mind into caring for us in Old Harlow."

The final winner was "selfless and dedicated volunteer" Jackie Nash.

Jackie was a Cub Scout leader for 27 years, has been involved in the U3A and also helped to form the Mulberry Green Residents' Association.

Cllr Muriel Jolles added: "She is now fighting for the rights of residents in Churchgate Street to have their bus service reinstated so they can attend clinics. All her time is voluntary."

Civic honour for former university vice-chancellor

Gemma Gardner

AN educationalist has been rewarded for his "significant contribution" to the Harlow community.

Professor Mike Thorne received Harlow Council's civic award for outstanding community leadership at a meeting of the authority on Thursday.

Nominating Professor Thorne, Cllr Tony Durcan said he had made a significant contribution to the advancement of skills, education and learning in Harlow.

"His time as vice chancellor of Anglia Ruskin University has seen the town move up a league in the quality of the offer that Harlow can provide to its residents, its workforce and businesses."

Professor Thorne, who is not from Harlow, played a key role in the sponsorship of the Sir Charles Kao UTC by Anglia Ruskin as well as ensuring a new MedTech Innovation Centre will be provided at Harlow Enterprise Zone. He was also a governor at Harlow College between 2007 and 2015.

Cllr Durcan added: "He has played a leading role in creating a dynamic new institution delivering relevant knowledge and skills for local young people linked directly to the needs of the business."

He praised Professor Thorne's passion for partnership working, his recognition of the potential of Harlow and his consistent support and commitment for the realisation of that potential.

"He understands the concept of a New Town and the opportunities and challenges that go with it," said Cllr Durcan. "He shares our ambition for the town."

UTC principal Mike McKeavene added: "He has been one of the driving forces behind the improvement of educational standards and destination points for the young people of Harlow."

Karen Spencer, principal of Harlow College, added: "He brought his clear values, vision and high standards for teaching and learning."

Collecting the award, Professor Thorne said: "I look forward to watching as the town goes from strength to strength."

WELL READ: MP Robert Halfon with pupils from The Downs Primary School in Harlow

MP takes time off his duties to read children a chapter

MP ROBERT Halfon took time off from his political duties to read a passage from a classic children's story to pupils at a primary school in Harlow.

As part of his Reading with Rob project, Mr Halfon picked the first chapter of The Lion, The Witch and The Wardrobe by CS Lewis to read to youngsters at The Downs Primary, in The Hides.

"It was a pleasure visiting the school and reading to the children," he said. "After finishing the first chapter I asked them questions."

"They were all brilliant and I was amazed at how detailed their responses were. I enjoy my Reading with Rob sessions and I do them at schools and nurseries across Harlow."

After the session Mr Halfon presented all of the children with a bookmark and certificate to thank them for their participation.

Children move to the music in Big Dance Pledge

DANCERS TO THE MUSIC: Roydon Primary School children took part in the Big Dance Pledge performance

YOUNGSTERS who attend after-school dance clubs joined thousands of others around the world who took part in a Big Dance performance.

The project kicked off with the Big Dance Pledge, the largest simultaneous performance in the world with children performing to music created by Nitin Sawhney and choreography by Akram Khan.

Among those taking part were children from after-school clubs run by Epping Forest Council and held at Roydon Primary School, Nazeing Primary School, Coopersale and Theydon Garnon Primary School, Chipping Ongar Primary School, Ivy Chimneys Primary School and Moreton Primary School.

Vanessa Gayton, dance engagement officer at Epping Forest Council, said: "It has been a fantastic experience for the children. I'm very proud of each and every single one of them."

"The beauty of the Dance Pledge is that it is for everyone, with all types of people and levels of experience of dance in mind. It's important to put dance on the map and to show how dance can bring people together."

Pair receive award for their Holocaust efforts

St Mark's sixth formers helping raise awareness of Nazi crimes

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

TWO Harlow sixth formers have received a Diana Award in recognition of their efforts in raising awareness about the Holocaust among their peer groups.

In their role as ambassadors for the Holocaust Memorial Education Trust, Charlotte Andrews and Bethany Thorpe, who attend St Mark's West Essex Catholic School in Tripton Road, have given presentations to pupils and prepared lesson plans for Year 9 students.

The pair also organised a survivor of the Holocaust to visit St Mark's, an experience which made a strong impression on their classmates.

Both girls were inspired to complete their work after visiting the infamous Auschwitz Birkenau death camp.

Charlotte said: "We have been glad to share with other young people what we've learned about the past so they can relate this to modern problems."

"It was both an honour and exciting to receive the Diana Award. Bethany and I are also grateful to the Holocaust Memorial Education Trust for the opportunity we have been given."

Legacy

The Diana Award was started as a legacy to Princess Diana's belief that young people have the power to change the world for the better. It has the support of both Prince William and Prince Harry.

Charlotte and Bethany received their award from chief executive Tessy Ojo and Ricky Rayment, star of reality series The Only Way Is Essex.

The presentation, which took place at New Hall School in Chelmsford, was attended by teachers and family members.

End in sight for Mehmet as he cycles into Turkey

A FATHER-of-four is on the final stretch of his epic 3,000-mile cycle ride from Harlow to the Turkish capital of Ankara.

Mehmet Cakmak, owner of Café Pizzeria in Bush Fair, has now crossed the border into Turkey which is the eighth and final country of his journey.

The 50-year-old set off from Harlow on April 16 and looks set to complete the ride in the next few days. He aims to raise £5,000 for St Clare Hospice.

Ankara is the hometown of Mr Cakmak, who decided to attempt the challenge after turning 50 last year. He has uploaded pictures onto Twitter at various stages along the route.

He has now passed the north-west Turkish city of Edirne, which is about 426 miles away from Ankara.

As he passed the border at the weekend St Clare Hospice tweeted a photo of him holding his bike above his head with the message: "Want to know what a cycling hero looks like? Look no further."

■ Anyone wanting to sponsor Mr Cakmak can do so by visiting his fundraising page at www.justgiving.com/Mehmet-Cakmak.

Pair charged with cash theft from 80-year-old

TWO people have been charged with theft after an 80-year-old woman had a large amount of money stolen from her in Harlow town centre.

The pair – a man and a woman – were arrested after police released CCTV images of two people they wanted to question in connection with the theft of a four-figure sum.

The money was stolen from the victim after she withdrew it from a cash machine at the East Gate branch of Lloyds Bank on Wednesday, May 23.

Djani Jovanovic, 30, and Jasmina Muslimovic, 31, both of from Oldbury in the West Midlands, were arrested by police in Lincolnshire on Thursday.

They were taken to Harlow police station where they were interviewed and charged.

Both were released on bail and ordered to appear at Chelmsford Magistrates Court on Monday, June 27.

Actors and writers in festival collaboration

MEMBERS of Moot House Players teamed up with the Harlow Writers' Club to present five playlets and one monologue as their contribution to the Harlow Festival.

The six pieces were handed over to three producers who took an approach to the works which the authors had not expected.

Nine members of the Players grappled with the varied characters which ranged from astronaut cats and a serial philanderer to the host of a radio programme stalked by a child to whom he had made advances many years earlier.

The performance was staged at Moot House on Sunday in front of an invited audience.

Residents' group wins Queen's service award

Association given honour for its service to the community

Ken Morley

star@hertssexnews.co.uk

MEMBERS of a voluntary group in Harlow which works to improve the lives of people living in the local community are celebrating after it was given the Queen's Award for Voluntary Service.

The Berecroft Residents' Association was set up 17 years ago when control of the estate was transferred from Harlow Council to a housing association.

Since its inception a core group of volunteers has worked closely with the council, the housing association and the emergency services to improve life for those living in the area.

The association has run clubs for fishing, football, craft, swimming and jobs. In addition, it arranges weekly walks for the elderly and runs a local wardens service and a website offering help and advice.

It has also overseen the refurbishment of the play area and installed lighting which has led to a fall in incidents of anti-social behaviour in the area.

Earlier this year it received a grant from the Essex Community Foundation to continue the warden scheme and Saturday football sessions.

Last month association chairman Zulqar Cheema and committee member Frank Alecs attended a garden party at Buckingham Palace where they met other winners of this year's Queen's Award for Voluntary Service.

The award is the highest award given to local volunteer groups across the UK to recognise outstanding work in their communities. They were created in 2002 to celebrate the Queen's Golden Jubilee and winners are announced June 2, the anniversary of the Queen's coronation.

The association is one of 193 charities, social enterprises and voluntary groups to receive the honour this year. It will be presented with the award by the Lord Lieutenant of Essex later this summer.

Former journalist Sir Martyn Lewis, who is chairman of the award committee, said: "I warmly congratulate all of the inspirational voluntary groups who have been rewarded for their community work. The judging panel was struck by the quality and breadth of all the successful groups."

"The thousands of volunteers who give up spare time to help others in their community and to help solve problems demonstrate the very best of democracy in action."

Hundreds at memorial match for Marcel

HUNDREDS of people attended a football match held in memory of a Harlow teenager who died suddenly in March.

The game was played between Harlow Town Youth and Frontiers Youth Panthers, two of the teams for which 16-year-old Marcel Bellairs-Honiss played.

Proceeds from the match, which took place at Harlow Arena on Friday, were donated to the charity Mind in West Essex.

Greig Williamson, who officiated along with Danny Innes and Mark Taylor, said: "It was a great success and there were an awful lot of people there. I would estimate there must have been around 400 people watching."

For the record, the game ended in a 6-1 victory for Harlow Town Youth.

Mr Williamson said: "With a couple of minutes to go Alan Honiss, Marcel's father, came on to play for Harlow Town Youth."

"It was an amazing situation as he must have had about four opportunities to score but the Frontiers Youth goalkeeper kept making world class saves. They clearly had not read the script."

He added: "When he did eventually score the whole stadium erupted. He said a few words afterwards and mentioned that he wanted the game to be an annual event with the boys raising as much money as they can."

"The game was played in good spirits and the boys all did Marcel proud."

Tyler Bull, who was a closed friend of Marcel, decided to hold the charity game as football was one of the teenager's passions.

Crowds queue for Roadshow's return

BBC antiques team spends day filming at Audley End

star@hertssexnews.co.uk

MORE than 2,500 people eager to uncover the history and value of their family heirlooms flocked to a country house in Essex when the Antiques Roadshow team visited the county for the first time in five years.

The BBC show, now in its 39th season, set up shop at Audley End House on Thursday, offering every visitor the chance to have their treasures valued by experts.

Long queues stretched around the gardens of the 17th century mansion, which is situated just outside Saffron Walden, throughout the morning and afternoon.

Among the items taken for valuation were an unusual music box, a Salvador Dali painting, a French clock and a military shell believed to be from the Boer War.

As filming took place, show presenter Fiona Bruce said: "It's been brilliant. I've had a really, really interesting day."

Connections

"I'm not an antiques specialist in any shape or form so for me it's the stories that people have and the personal connections to the items that really makes the job so interesting."

"If you're professionally nosey, which I am, the most rewarding part of the show is just meeting the people who have come and hearing their stories. I never tire of it.

"I've been doing this for nine years now and I enjoy it as much as I ever have."

She added: "Audley End is a lovely place and it's been gorgeous, just what we were hoping for, and perfect Antiques Roadshow weather."

It was the first time the programme had visited Essex since 2011 when an episode was filmed at Layer Marney Tower near Colchester.

Filming at Audley End did not finish until the early evening. It will now be edited to create two hour-long shows which are due to be broadcast in the autumn.

Children inspire artist to 'honest and free' work

HARLOW artist Natalie Nashville said her two sons have proved an inspiration for her debut solo exhibition.

Set Free showcases her acrylic on canvas works at Gatehouse Arts' Eastgate Gallery in East Gate, Harlow where they will hang until Tuesday.

Natalie's work presents a blend of dreamy colours with acrylic paint which sometimes features collage and layering. Garden birds are also a common feature within her works.

The 35-year-old, who lives in Newhall, said: "Most of my recent work has become increasingly abstract, more honest and free.

"I enjoy painting birds, I find their form very attractive. My boys and I enjoy a bit of bird spotting in the garden and they often inform my decisions on what to paint next.

"But I really enjoy the more experimental and abstract style of working - seeing how each colour dictates the next colour and form."

The Gatehouse exhibition is a venture into the unknown for Natalie who has previously had work sold in Harrogate and Hampstead.

Eastgate Gallery in East Gate opens Tuesday to Thursday from 10am to 4pm. Free entry. For more information visit www.gatehousearts.com.

Bard for all...

STAGING a combination of four plays with a mixture of trained and new actors sounds destined to be a comedy of errors.

But all at Harlow Theatre Company are enjoying rehearsing for Shakespeare in Love, which celebrates the genius of The Bard in the year of his 400th birthday.

Victoria Hall will host the play which combines Romeo and Juliet, As You Like It, Twelfth Night and The Merry Wives of Windsor into 15-minute shorts with sonnets thrown into the mix.

The 'workshop production' will feature 10 actors playing 50 characters with experienced company members joining theatre newcomers on stage.

"It has been a completely different process but it has been going very well," said Jane Miles, who is co-directing Shakespeare in Love with Paul Johnson.

"There was no auditioning and we opened it up to anyone who wanted to be involved. There is a mixture of experience and people who have never been on stage in their life.

"It has been quite challenging to say the least to perform something very quirky. But the cast are all really enjoying it. There is a buzz about it."

Shakespeare in Love has nothing in common with the 1998 Joseph Fiennes and Gwyneth Paltrow film of the same name.

Nor is there a plot that follows through the plays and sonnets, but rather it offers a condensed celebration of the Bard's work with the theme of love linking it together.

Jane said that after overseeing Harlow Theatre Club perform Macbeth, The Merchant of Venice and Comedy of Errors she wanted to explore the theme of love for the Bard's birthday.

"They are all Shakespeare love stories rather than tragedy," she said.

"It is the original text, but we have put our own spin on it too.

There is a wonderful atmosphere and a connection between the actors. I want the play to have that feel about it.

"They are all really good plays. I know that some of the cast have been particularly enjoying Much Ado About Nothing. It has been really good fun with all the hiding and trickery.

"They are also enjoying having a go at some of the famous monologues. It is going to be a fun evening. You can bring children to it, they are short little stories."

She added: "We are turning three-hour plays into 15 minutes so we have tried to make it very clear, at least I hope it will be.

"It has been quite nice and different to have seven separate pieces (plays and poems). Me and Paul think very alike and it has worked out here."

Shakespeare created some of our most colourful language and insults which the actors are enjoying getting to grips with.

Harlow Theatre Company regulars Joe Bishop and Mitch Rouse, who recently starred in Mojo - also directed by Jane, return for this more light-hearted affair.

They are joined by two newcomers in Annie Williams and 15-year-old Poppy Williams who is straight into the limelight as Juliet.

"I am quite nervous and the cast are a bit too," admitted Jane about taking on a new kind of play with an inexperienced cast.

"We have been rehearsing together for three weeks now and there is one lady who has never been on stage before and she is nervous. But we have a number of players who are experienced who will support her and it will be fine."

■ Harlow Theatre Company will perform Shakespeare in Love on Thursday, June 2 and Friday, June 3 at 8pm. Both performances will be at Victoria Hall Theatre in Bury Road, Harlow. Tickets are £13 for adults and £10 for concessions. For bookings and more information call (01279) 420062.

Orchestra will conduct open rehearsals for new members

HARLOW Symphony Orchestra will be holding two open rehearsals this month for anyone interested in joining.

The orchestra is looking for people who play an instrument and who would like to try out for a place.

The rehearsals will take place on Tuesday (June 7) and a week later on Tuesday, June 14 at Tany's Dell School in Mowbray Road, starting at 7.45pm.

"We'll be holding our usual weekly rehearsal for our next concert and you can join in and see how you get on," said HSO spokesman Roger Lowry.

"By playing in an orchestra you will build your confidence, develop your technical skills, improve your sight-reading and enjoy meeting and working with other musicians."

The orchestra is currently rehearsing for its next performance which will take place at St John's Church in Epping on Sunday, July 3. The programme will feature Romeo and Juliet Overture Fantasy by Tchaikovsky, Nuits d'Ete by Berlioz and London Symphony No.2 by Vaughan Williams.

■ For more details about the open rehearsals, call (01279) 814118, email richard.allway@yahoo.co.uk or just turn up on the night.

Popular artist is inspired by nature exhibits at Gibberd

INTERNATIONALLY-renowned artist Peter Randall-Page will exhibit some of his acclaimed natural forms in a Harlow exhibition this month.

Essex-born Peter will showcase his work at the Gibberd Gallery from Friday, June 17 to Friday, September 2.

His extravagant carvings, bronzes and works on paper will come to the east of England for the very first time.

The exhibition, entitled Caught in the Act, will be a celebration of the artist, his working methods and the ideas that inspire him.

His work, inspired by eggs, insects and other shapes in nature, has been displayed at the Yorkshire Sculpture Park in Wakefield.

The gallery will be transformed into a journey through Peter's artistic transitions, allowing visitors to examine techniques close up and investigate their beginnings in the natural world and the mathematics which are within each form.

The journey begins with the stone carving Warp and Woof, placed in The Water Gardens just outside, creating a unique marker as a starting point for visitors to move on through the show.

Sections will act as a series of 'acts', with each part and individual artwork representing and different part of his working practice.

Stand-out works include the ceramic mosaic Wing 92009, which magnifies the intricate cellular structure of a grasshopper wing, with each tile representing a single cell, allowing us to see the invisible in a solid and textured form.

■ Exhibition is open from June 17 to September 2. Weekday hours are 9am to 4.45pm and Saturday openings are from 11am to 12noon on June 18, July 16, and August 20. For more information on the Harlow Art Trust managed show, visit www.gibberdgallery.co.uk.

Julie is (Simply) The Best

AFTER a long and varied career tribute singer Julie Nevada has made a rather fitting choice in the performer she replicates.

In her show Simply the Best, she is now performing as Tina Turner and will take to the stage at Harlow Playhouse on Thursday, July 7.

After years of studying Tina's mannerisms, dance routines and vocal style, Julie is offering the complete tribute to her idol.

With her tour now into its second year, she has already taken it nationwide with plans to expand the show to Ireland, Holland, Belgium and Malta.

Show manager Andy Locksley said: "It really has that wow factor you'd expect from seeing the real Tina Turner. It is a really big production."

Julie is backed by a seven-piece band, two backing singers and four dancers while visuals will play throughout on a big screen. High-tech sound and lighting will project her voice and presence on stage to do justice to Tina's famous performances.

Tina Turner is one of the most respected singers of her generation, chalking up nine studio albums and dozens of singles between the early 1960s and late 1990s.

She also had a very public private life, most notably her first marriage to rock legend Ike Turner, which was allegedly violent.

Tina's often-autobiographical songs reflected her passion in her battle with her tough upbringing and circumstances in life. Her spirit and emotion won her millions of fans around the world, including Julie.

Simply the Best is a chronological tribute, which starts with early hits like Fool in Love and River Deep Mountain High. Bigger hits such as Proud Mary, Nutbush City Limits and Simply The Best will follow on.

Julie started performing - in ballet - at a young age, but her dreams of dancing were literally cut short when she was told she was not tall enough to be considered a prima ballerina.

Turning her attention to music, she played in various venues around the UK and spent two years in America before coming back to the UK, feeling homesick.

Picking up the tribute circuit, she performed as Cher and Bonnie Tyler, who was actually the original performer of The Best before Tina's version became better known.

Julie's love for Tina's music, however, saw her begin to favour her music and had been performing as her for nearly 20 years before this latest tour started.

Now she is having the time of her life playing to audiences as Tina - which is fitting as both ladies could be considered to be journeywomen of the industry.

A planned pre-Superbowl show at The Warfield Theatre in San Francisco should have been an early highlight but unfortunately the group had to pull out due to not getting work permits in time.

However, America is still very much a goal according to Andy, who is keen to give Julie the stage her talents deserve.

"There are six costume changes in the show for the dancers and seven for Julie," he said.

"The costumes have been specially made and have the glamour as well as the glitz that's associated with Tina Turner.

"Julie loves performing as Tina Turner especially in its new environment of theatreland with her superb band and fabulous dancers it really is a show worth seeing."

■ Julie Nevada will perform as Tina Turner in Simply the Best at Harlow Playhouse on Thursday, July 7 at 7.30pm. Tickets start from £15.50. For bookings and more information visit www.playhouseharlow.com.

TEENAGE MUTANT NINJA TURTLES: OUT OF THE SHADOWS (12A)

TURTLE brothers Leonardo (Pete Ploszek), Raphael (Alan Ritchson), Michelangelo (Noel Fisher) and Donatello (Jeremy Howard) live in the sewers with their rat mentor Splinter (Danny Woodburn, voiced by Tony Shalhoub).

Mikey wishes they could live above ground with the people of New York. "We will never fit in. We live in the shadows, we're ninjas," chides one of his reptilian brothers.

Their arch-nemesis, Shredder (Brian Tee), escapes from police custody with the help of a teleportation portal developed by evil scientist Dr Baxter Stockman (Tyler Perry).

The portal inadvertently propels Shredder into the clutches of an alien from Dimension X called Krang (Brad Garrett), who intends to invade earth.

The extra-terrestrial mastermind enlists Shredder's help to locate two further pieces of a more powerful teleportation system, which are hidden in the American Museum of Natural History and a rainforest in Brazil.

While Shredder carries out the alien's bidding with the help of two mutant sidekicks - a rhinoceros called Rocksteady (Stephen Farrelly) and a warthog called Bebop (Gary Anthony Williams) - Bureau Chief of Organised Crime, Rebecca Vincent (Laura Linney), attempts to recapture the escaped criminal.

Her efforts come to nought, so it's left to the acrobatic turtles to avert disaster, aided by Channel 6 news reporter April O'Neil (Megan Fox) and a vigilante called Casey Jones (Stephen Amell).

In this sequel, the lead characters still look creepy, courtesy of motion-capture performances, but there's more emotion in a script that forces the somersaulting quartet to consider their place in a world that views them as monsters.

Mike's TV Films of the Week

WESTERN: THE TALL T Film4, Friday June 3, 11am
WESTERN: 3.10 TO YUMA (1957) Film4, Saturday June 4, 11am
A Western double bill to salivate over. Both these beauties were adapted from Elmore Leonard short stories in 1957 and put a dour, law-abiding central character up against a charismatic outlaw, but are otherwise quite different.

Actually Pat Brennan, in The Tall T, is a pretty easygoing chap compared to most of the parts played by Randolph Scott in his work with director Budd Boetticher. The pair collaborated on six magnificent Wild West 'B' movies in which the craggy Scott is the rock on which waves of flamboyant villainy are dashed. The tone at the start is uncharacteristically jolly and jokey, with Scott's smiling muscles given an unaccustomed workout, before things turn deadly serious. Small-time rancher Brennan hitches a ride on a privately hired stagecoach carrying two newlyweds, which is held up by a trio of desperadoes. When the weaselly groom, to save his own skin, lets it be known his bride has a very rich daddy who's probably willing to pay a huge ransom, it becomes a riveting battle of wits between Brennan and the kidnappers; a callow youth, a cold-eyed killer and their older, smarter leader Usher. Richard Boone is even better than usual as the ruthless yet immensely likeable Usher, who prefers Brennan's company to that of his cronies, and Scott is monumental. Burt Kennedy's script is a laconic delight, while Boetticher handles it all like the minimalist master he was.

In Delmer Daves' equally gripping 3.10 To Yuma, the 'good' character is no match for his villainous adversary - and they both know it. Dan Evans (Van Heflin, excellent) is a struggling rancher who, while out with his two young sons, watches helplessly as a stagecoach is held up and two people killed. Later on, after the notorious leader of the gang responsible, Ben Wade (Glen Ford), is captured, Dan jumps at the chance to earn $200 by helping get him on the titular train and out of town before his gang come back to get him.

Ford, cast against type, is sensational as the devilishly charming Wade. We can't help liking Wade, even after seeing him gun down two men in cold blood. It's not just us, though, Dan's family are equally beguiled when he joins them for dinner - much to the rancher's irritation. But Dan, all sweaty integrity, won't be swayed from the task he's been paid for, no matter how much Wade needles, cajoles and tempts him. The problem is, the gang are closing in.

Royals thumbs up from Jimmy

Jersey Royals are back in season - and Jimmy Doherty couldn't be happier. The TV host and food fan tells Gemma Dunn why this humble root veggie deserves to be star of the show

He might be known for his rare-breed pigs, but entomologist-turned-farmer Jimmy Doherty's latest initiative lets their veggie sidekick - the humble potato - do the talking.

"The Jersey Royal is an iconic food item and something we should celebrate," the 40-year-old enthuses of his collaboration with the seasonal spud. "If the Italians or French had this, they would be going on about it all the time."

Since taking on a 100-acre farm more than 10 years ago, which was famously documented in BBC Two series Jimmy's Farm, Doherty has made a name for himself in the world of TV, appearing in shows including Food Unwrapped and Jamie and Jimmy's Friday Night Feast, with childhood friend Jamie Oliver.

Add to that three books and a number of free-range food products, and it stands to reason that he's the ideal patron to champion the unique Jersey crop - or as he dubs it, "the Champagne of potatoes".

"As a kid, having Jersey Royals with your spring lamb was pretty important," he muses. "I'm a big believer in seasonality."

Available from April until the end of June, Jersey Royals' Protected Designation of Origin status means its five-generational farmers use 130-year-old techniques to ensure their nutty flavour, creamy consistency and flaky skins.

"I visited Jersey, and I arrived thinking, 'I'm used to farming in the British Isles', but I've never seen it like that before," admits Doherty. "They're all crackers, and the fields they hand-plant their crops on - cotils - are steep, so the planters have to be winched up!"

Jersey Royal and halloumi rosemary skewers

Delivered to supermarkets within 48 hours of being gathered up, the TV foodie is also a firm believer that these potatoes - and other varieties - should be a diet staple.

"We forget potatoes are full of vitamin C, antioxidants and fibre, and we're moving to other carbohydrates like rice and pasta," he says. "We should go back to eating lots of potatoes."

"It's about portion control, that's all," he adds, in response to any spud critics, and the father-of-three certainly practises what he preaches at home.

"The simplest way [to serve Jersey Royals] is freshly dug with butter, but I use them for my kids all the time as mini roast potatoes. Rather than peeling and chopping, I just put them straight in the roaster and they love them.

"My kids get excited about food. Understanding where food comes from is a very natural part of their life, and it should be the case for everyone."

"I wish we could emulate what Jersey does," he continues. "If all of the schools [across the UK] were excited by Jersey Royal season, and did little competitions where they grow the potatoes, it would show pride and respect for the environment."

It's an ethos he looks to implement at Jimmy's Farm, which today boasts a nature trail, butterfly house, award-winning restaurant, science and food festivals - and a zoo licence in the pipeline.

"It never ends!" Doherty admits, laughing. "There are 30 full-timers, and I'll tell you what, dealing with pigs is a lot easier than dealing with people!"

When he's not running the land, the star feels lucky to be dipping his toe in the world of showbiz - and even luckier, on occasion, to be doing so with good pal, Oliver.

"We muck around and get told off because we talk rubbish," he reveals of his time filming Jamie and Jimmy's Friday Night Feast. "We've never grown up, but it's fun."

Next up, he's pleased to be hosting a show that will see him travel to all corners of the globe, in search of people who've swapped the rat race for the wilderness - a concept that takes him back to the topic of sustainability.

"Without food producers and regular supply in our supermarkets, where would we be?"

Try your hand at Doherty's family-friendly recipes, specifically created for the iconic Jersey Royal...

Ingredients*For the mint oil:*

25g fresh mint, leaves only
 150ml extra virgin olive oil
 Sea salt
 Coarsely ground black pepper

For the skewers:

4 x straight woody stems of rosemary around 25cm long
 500g Jersey Royal new potatoes, scrubbed (not peeled) and cut in half
 360g halloumi cheese, cut into 3cm cubes
 1 medium aubergine, cut into 3cm cubes
 200g cherry tomatoes

Method
 To make the mint oil, add all the ingredients to the food processor and process for one to two minutes until smooth.
 To make the skewers, add the potatoes, halloumi, aubergine and tomatoes to the mint oil. Mix well to ensure that everything is evenly coated.
 Strip the base rosemary leaves from each stem, leaving the top 4cm of each with leaves. Thread alternate potato, halloumi, aubergine and tomatoes along each stem and continue until everything is used up.
 Preheat the barbecue or grill.
 Cover the leafy tops of the rosemary skewers with a sheet of tin foil, to prevent them burning, then grill or barbecue the skewers over a medium heat for about 10-15 minutes, turning regularly until the potatoes are cooked through and the vegetables are golden. Baste occasionally with the mint oil.

 Serve with a drizzle of remaining mint oil.

Jersey Royal Potato Spring Vegetable Frittata

SERVES 4-6IngredientsFor the frittata:*

300g Jersey Royal new potatoes
 100g fresh peas, podded or frozen
 100g broad beans, podded and shelled or frozen
 6 large free range eggs
 3tbsp mint, roughly chopped
 1tbsp olive oil

4 salad onions, thinly sliced
 4 baby courgettes, sliced in half lengthways
 1 garlic clove, crushed
 100g feta, crumbled
 Sea salt
 Coarsely ground black pepper

For the pea shoot and mint salad:

40g fresh pea shoots
 40g fresh rocket leaves
 1 small bunch of torn mint leaves

1tbsp extra virgin olive oil
 Squeeze lemon juice
 Sea salt
 Ground black pepper

Method

To make the frittata, cook the Jersey Royals in a pan of water for 12-15 minutes, until tender. Drain and, when cool, slice thinly.

Cook the peas and broad beans in boiling water for two minutes (or four to five if from frozen) then drain and refresh under cold water.

Whisk the eggs in a medium bowl with the mint, salt and pepper.

Heat the oil in a 24cm non-stick frying pan. Add the courgettes, cook for one to two minutes, then add the potatoes, onions and garlic, cook for three to four minutes, until beginning to brown.

Stir in the peas and broad beans, keeping 10g of each for the salad.

Preheat the grill. Pour the whisked egg over the vegetables and crumble over the feta, keeping 20g of feta for the salad. Cook over a gentle heat for 10-12 minutes until almost set. Transfer the pan to the grill and cook for three to five minutes until the top is golden and cooked through.

Place a plate or board over the top of the pan so that the frittata falls onto the plate. Slice into wedges and serve with the salad.

I'll tell you what, dealing with pigs is a lot easier than dealing with people!

BANK holiday weekends are usually jam-packed for most of us as we try to fit in as much fun as possible over the long weekend.

I held a cookery masterclass to celebrate a significant birthday on the Friday with a very lively family group, a private dining event on the Saturday and then cooking live on stage at Foodies festival in Syon Park in west London on Monday.

So what did I decide to do on my one day off? Have a massive cook-up for friends and family, of course!

I've had a leg of Cumbrian lamb in the freezer for a little while, so it was the perfect opportunity to spice it up with a lovely Naga chilli, mint and coriander rub and roast it on the barbecue.

As well as the lamb, we had sheek kebabs, which my friend Vern ended up making, as I was very much behind the curve with preparations by the time people arrived.

I also put on the usual burgers, sausages, halloumi, mushrooms, roast potatoes, roasted vegetables, coleslaw, salad, chutney, raitha etc... I thought I needed the sausages and burgers in case the children wouldn't eat the spicy lamb, but funnily enough they were diving right into it, coming back for seconds and thirds!

Foodies festival at Syon Park was a lovely day out as ever. I was particularly excited as my host for the day was Dhruv Baker, one of my favourite MasterChef buddies.

And even more exciting was knowing that also on the bill were Jane Devonshire, the newly-crowned MasterChef champion and Jack Layer another finalist. Billy and Juanita were also there, making it the full final four line-up from this year's competition.

Jane was just as lovely in real life as we all expected; this was her first live cooking demonstration and she did very well, with a packed audience wishing her well every step of the way.

I also had the chance to see my mate Daisy Brydon, who is the most incredibly talented cake sculptor. She was demonstrating her amazing talents in the Cake & Bake theatre. The work she does is jaw-dropping; it is far more than cake decorating. If you look up Daisy Brydon creations you will easily find images of her work online.

At Syon Park, Daisy had sculpted Yoda entirely from cake, although I don't think I could be the one to take a slice out of the Jedi master. I feel the children's teacher Mr Beardsworth would definitely have approved as an avid follower of the teachings of the small green philosopher.

For my demo, because I knew I'd be on stage with Dhruv, who is a real old pro (in the nicest possible way), I decided to cook something a little more complex than I usually would for a cooking demonstration. So I produced my fine dining version of chicken makhani; a marinated supreme of free-range chicken with a makhani sauce, spiced cauliflower puree, aloo gobi and cauliflower pakoras.

The cooking all went pretty well, but it was a busy workspace with lots of ingredients and equipment on the bench. The final result of this was having cooked all four elements of the dish, I managed to carve the chicken and then chuck half of it onto the floor! Luckily, I still had half to put on the plate and the dish came together in a manner of speaking. Have a look on my website www.sairahamilton.com for the recipe if you'd like to give it a go yourself.

And there was more cooking under pressure the week when my own kitchen was temporarily turned into a studio so I could film a showreel or taster reel.

This is basically a short video of me cooking and presenting myself and my kind of food. The idea is to have a little video of me in action to put on my website and to send to various creative media agencies in order to generate more opportunities.

It was fun to be filming again, though we managed to turn the house upside down in the process. It was much harder than I remember, you forget just how many times you have to say the same thing again and again, with just a slightly different inflection, or without the redundant connective phrases which make editing too difficult! Now then...

But it was a good day and the results are there to see.

And finally I was delighted to see that the Orange Tree pub in Sawbridgeworth has been selected in Time Out's top 10 perfect country pubs in easy reach of London.

Many congratulations to Tom Perry and Samantha Smith for achieving this great accolade.

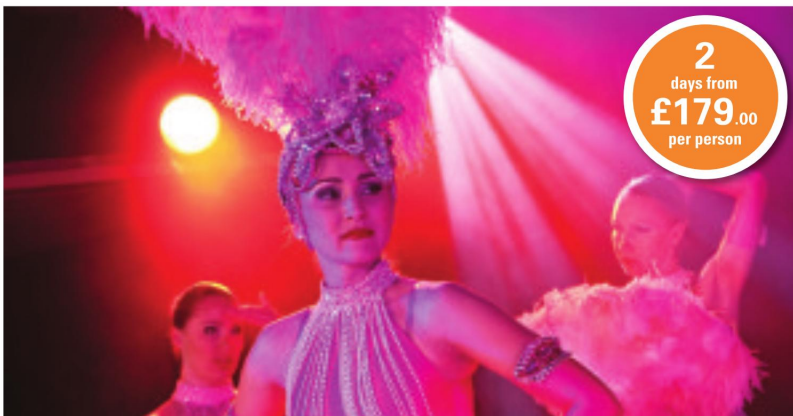

So better get down there soon if you haven't yet, before it gets overrun with fancy London types hotfooting up to our manor!

Fiat brings back the Tipo hatchback and estate cars

TESTED Fiat Tipo

David Ward

FIAT is set to make a bold move back into what is called the 'C' sector (family hatchback cars) of the market and taking on such long-established big-selling rivals like Ford's Focus and Vauxhall's Astra.

They are doing it with an entirely new model but with a revival of their old name from the past – the Tipo – which won the coveted European Car of the Year title back in 1989.

Over decades Fiat have been arch exponents of building highly successful small hatchbacks but they've never really been able to replicate such dizzy sales heights in the Focus/Astra sized car sector.

This time round the bosses in Turin believe they have cracked it with this new Tipo, which incidentally is being built in Turkey, with what is a sound, practical and affordable hatchback and estate car for both families and also the company car driver.

Arriving here and going on sale in September this new Tipo certainly brings a breath of fresh air to this segment with two crucial advantages over some of its rivals – it's practical with bags of interior space and is decently equipped and also prices are realistic too.

These start at £12,995 for a hatchback and £13,995 for the estate car (Fiat calls it a Station Wagon) and there will be a choice of five engines available – two diesel and three petrol with Fiat here expecting the best seller to be the 1.6-litre diesel.

Value for money is also the key for the Tipo to succeed where for example with the entry-level 1.4-litre 85bhp petrol engine it comes with a decent level of standard equipment that includes DAB radio, USB/Bluetooth connectivity, steering wheel radio controls, air conditioning, front electric windows and much more.

For entry-level model buyers who want some of the options that are included as standard with higher trimmed versions don't have to pay out an arm-and-a-leg as we say to have some as you would with some rivals.

For example front fog lights are just £150, rear electric window £240, rear parking sensors £300 and dark tinted rear windows £175.

Across the range there are just three trim levels too, keeping it simple for buyers.

Inside it's spacious too with the hatchback having 440 litres of space (the estate has 550 litres) and with wide opening rear doors makes it exceptionally handy for a family fitting young child seats in the rear while it will comfortably fit three adult size passengers in the back.

In addition and continuing on the car's strong practical advantages there are numerous cubby holes for storage and with the rear seats folded down they will give even more luggage space.

Staying inside and for the driver there's a well laid out dashboard with good, clear and big instruments that are easy to read and use while the sat nav system again is just straight forward and so easy to use too.

Drivers can also with the touch of a dashboard button change the mileage/speed reading from mph to km/h which makes it so handy for those crossing the English Channel and driving on the Continent.

In terms of engine again Fiat are keeping it dead simple for buyers with three petrol engines – 1.4-litre 95bhp, 1.4-litre turbocharged with 120bhp and a 1.6-litre 110bhp unit which offers the only automatic gearbox in the range with a six-speed torque converter.

The pair of turbo diesels are a 1.3-litre 95bhp Multijet and 1.6-litre 120bhp with this latter one expected to be the best seller here with prices starting at a competitive £16,999.

This latter one was certainly impressive on a pre-launch test run in and outside the busy streets of Turin aided by a nice, sharp feeling six-speed manual gear change and reasonably good mid range acceleration when using the gears sensibly.

Fiat claims this car is capable of accelerating from 0 to 62mph in 9.8 seconds and will return 76.3mpg on the combine fuel consumption although on a 200-odd kilometre test drive it returned 48.8mpg.

Crucially here for the company car driver's tax break the CO2 comes in at 98g/km while a careful driver again using the gears in a reasonable way should be able to achieve well over the 50mpg mark.

This 1.6-litre diesel is quite responsive and punchy when needed but exceptionally refined for a diesel that also offers good, low down torque (i.e. pulling power from low revs of the engine).

The ride is decent enough although some of its rivals give a stronger, more firm ride yet this new Tipo is comfortable even for an adult back seat passenger as I tried where the leg and head room was okay.

The interior furnishings and fittings are much what one would expect of a car in this level of the market and again are more on the practical side rather than about being luxurious.

In terms of outside looks the body has a smart, modern design about it and whilst not head turning it has nice, smooth and flowing body lines with a particularly stylish rear end in my view.

Verdict: Value for money and practicality are the two big aims of this new Tipo and the Fiat backroom team have achieved both which will be the model's main selling points.

It's straight forward to drive, with no frills and simply gets on with the job needed and whilst some rivals like the Astra and Focus are perhaps more fun to drive and have a bit more character about them there are drivers who will be more than happy with what the Tipo offers, inside and also out on the road.

Which model to choose? If you're doing a great deal of mileage every month then that excellent 1.6-litre diesel has to be the answer; otherwise the 1.4-litre petrol with manual transmission is probably the best option.

Premiership of the MHRML league next season. We are moving to 11 aside and are looking for players of good ability who will be entering year 8 in September 2016 who could join this already talented bunch of boys.

We offer training twice a week focused on fitness as well as technical ability, and offer an ethos of allowing boys to express themselves without fear on the pitch.

We have the ambition and club facilities to move into the EJA league at some point in the future. If you feel this club could be of interest to you please contact Jason on 07968852668.

No Horn of plenty as last wicket proves elusive in draw

THE final wicket proved elusive as Harlow Town were unable to conjure a victory against Horndon on the Hill in the Shepherd Neame Essex League Division Two on Saturday.

Town batted first after winning the toss.

Shiraz Ali (31) and Ashley Alderson (38) produced an opening stand of 77.

In-form Joe Holland (10) was spectacularly caught on the deep mid-wicket boundary.

He was one of four wickets for Ryan Maddar (4-55).

Aside from Pat Yates' 36, the visitors' other batsmen made small contributions but these were significant on a tricky wicket as Town made 189-8.

Jamaican Chris Powell bowled

with great hostility in his opening spell.

Wickets then started to tumble as first, a comical run out, left both players at one end and opener Mike Canavan run out on 16, before Damien Sweet (17) was clean bowled by Powell.

At one point Horndon were 73-6 and clinging on for a draw.

But seventh- and eighth-wicket stands between, firstly Scott Plom (9) and Shahbaz Iqbal (39), and then Iqbal and James Stitson (36) proved crucial.

When these men were removed, the hosts were 161-9 with 12 balls remaining.

But neither Dan Farmer nor Powell could get the decisive tenth wicket as Harlow Town were left frustrated again.

Powell finished with 4-26, Farmer 2-33 and Has Ali 2-20.

Gladwin said: "We tried everything we could to get ourselves over the line."

"If we had scored two more runs last week and taken one more wicket this week, we would find ourselves third in the league. The signs are there and we are fighting well as a team."

Jared's helping hand for teenage triathlete

Running club stalwart's training pays off for Kai, 13

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertsexnews.co.uk

THE Brownlee brothers are a source of inspiration for a young triathlete with his sights firmly set on qualification for regional and national competitions this year.

Thirteen-year-old Passmore Academy student Kai Boggon has been training hard all winter getting ready for the 2016 season.

It might be a dream for Kai to emulate the achievements of London 2012 Olympic Games medalists Jonny and Alastair, but the teenager certainly is putting in the hard work to improve as a triathlete.

Kai has been training with Harlow Running Club stalwart Jared Bethell, who owns JB Fitness and is based at Mark Hall Sportscentre, as he builds up his strength and stamina in readiness for a gruelling summer of competition.

The youngster, a member of Woodford Green & Essex Ladies Athletic Club where he trains with Essex coach John Stow, has smashed his personal best (PB) times.

In the last couple of weeks Kai trimmed nearly a minute off his PB for the Harlow 5K parkrun, finishing in a very impressive 19min 16sec.

Eight weeks of intensive training has paid off for Kai.

His dad Richard said: "He was so proud he finally managed to run under 20 minutes which shocked both of his coaches who also were very proud of him."

"Since then all his PBs have been getting faster in the 1500m and 3000m, even in difficult conditions ranging from very late and cold nights at Watford to very hot days at Woodford.

"Through the winter months Kai has put in some hard work in and out of the gym and it proves that hard work pays off."

"Now the Regional Tri series is well under way and Kai has moved up an age group to the U15s Tri Star 3 category, where the swim has increased to 300m the bike to 6km and the run to 2.4km, which is a massive step up from last year."

Three races in and Kai is ranked second in the South East region with three great second places.

In the last couple of weeks the open water swimming training at Redricks Lake in Sawbridgeworth has seen Kai train in the water with RG Active.

Elite

Richard said: "It's such a great club that welcome all abilities. The training sessions are split into groups where you can swim with the elite swimmers or start off with the technique group where you are taught the right way to swim in open water in friendly atmosphere."

"Kai's coaches hope the success carries on and he makes it to the regional squad and competes with the best triathletes in the country which in itself will be a great achievement."

■ HARLOW Running Club competed in the second round of the Herts/Essex Midweek Road Race League Division Two over an undulating multi-terrain course at Hitchin.

Both men's and women's teams finished in fourth place out of 11 teams and were fifth overall.

After two races HRC are in fifth place.

First home for Harlow in the men's race was Rob Lowe in sixth place out of 227 finishers in an excellent PB for the distance of 35min 45sec.

He was followed by Afewerk Rossom (8th in 36:41), Dan Chapman (34th in 39:22 PB), Amanuel Tesfay (36th in 39:36) and Alex Smith (37th in 39:39).

Roy Steven was 96th and third Vet 60 in 44:23 and there were PB runs from Darren Tiley (81st in 43:06), Nick Rogers (161st in 49:19) and Steve Crosby (224th in 68:47).

First woman was Sharon Wright in tenth place out of 117 finishers in a superb PB time of 43:27.

She was followed by Julia Gardiner (20th in 45:07), Carinne Jay (22nd in 45:28) and Sandi Rust (25th in 47:05).

There were also PB runs from Holly Nairn (57th in 51:02) and Michelle Hyde (59th in 51:20).

Meanwhile on a chilly and windy Bank Holiday Monday there was a fantastic turnout of 56 HRC runners at the Hatfield Broad Oak 10K.

First home was Rob Lowe in eighth place out of 1210 finishers in a fantastic PB time of 35:13.

He was followed home by Rich Hynes (25th in 36:48 PB), Dan Chapman (44th in 38:39 PB) and Alex Smith (55th in 39:17).

First woman was Louise Tankard (127th in 42:09) followed by Carrine Jay (210th in 44:36 PB), Dionne Jones (227th in 45:06) and Catherine Ridge (244th in 45:21).

There were also PB runs from Brendon MacLean (72nd in 39:41) and Darren Tiley (121st in 41:53).

Plastic fantastic at Paringdon

A STATE-of-the-art 3G artificial pitch means football can be played all year round at Harlow's Paringdon Sports Club.

Doorstep football is run free of charge for 14-25 year olds every Monday as part of a scheme to keep young people fit at the Paringdon Road venue.

A club spokesman said: "It means that we can offer the newest Astro to the local community."

"We can continue to offer the best outdoor multi sport facilities to the community."

Winger so sad to leave Hawks

WINGER Joe Benjamin was pleased he achieved his objective of helping Harlow Town win promotion after joining close neighbours Bishop's Stortford.

The former Northampton Town player (pictured right), who joined Harlow from Dulwich Hamlet last summer, has left after just one season at The Harlow Arena.

Benjamin said: "Big thanks to Chappo and Spenc [Harlow assistant boss Spencer Knight] for last season."

"Last year was my best so far in non-league but I'm sad to say I'm leaving and have signed for Bishop's Stortford and before you say for more money it's not.

"It just didn't work out, talks at Harlow, no hard feelings. Most of all the Harlow fans - best in non-league."

"It [has] been emotional guys and I'm sure one day I'll be back in the red - I came for promotion and me and the boys did it."

Having helped Harlow to promotion, he chose Stortford because they are managed by ex-Hawks assistant boss Gordon Boateng, Benjamin's friend.

Stortford play a division above Harlow in the Vanarama National South.

Club mourns shock death of coach Nat

TRIBUTES have been made after the death of Harlow Athletic Club stalwart coach Nat Fisher at the age of 79.

Fisher, who worked with the likes of Olympic 2012 800metre finalist Andrew Osagie during the Great Britain athlete's early years when he first took up running, died on Sunday morning.

Even approaching his 80th birthday, Nat was still at the athletic club, which is based at Mark Hall Sportscentre in London Road, Old Harlow, up to six days a week.

He had been coaching a group of teenage athletes.

Athletics was his life and he shone at coaching, starting at the club in 1975 when it was based in Hammarskjold Road.

He was still running in his later years and held a veteran world record.

His death came as a huge shock as he had been thought to have taken a bad fall as he returned to his Sawbridgeworth home on Sunday after picking up a newspaper.

He fell and hit his head.

A post mortem is being held today (Thursday).

Gentleman

HAC chairman Steve Lott said: "Let us remember a true gentleman and club stalwart. And, I extend to the family the condolences and good wishes from all connected with Harlow Athletic Club."

Former English national champion 400m runner and English Schools champion Natalie Cain, who lives in Harlow, was coached by Nat for 13 years, helping her reach the very top of English athletics.

She said: "Everyone has been so shocked. No one realised he was nearly 80 years old. He has coached national champions, English Schools' champions, Olympic finalists. Every year at the [Essex] county championships his athletes would always return with medals: gold, silver and bronze."

HAC coach Paul Bailey said: "He's been a guiding light at HAC from the very beginning and has taken local kids and turned them into Olympians."

"But so much more than that he's just been a great coach and great friend who gave up so much of his time for our youngsters, club and community and did so for decades."

Former HAC chairman Chris Clark said on Facebook: "There are so many people who owe him so much and are far better people for just knowing him."

"My heart goes out to his family and we are all devastated."

The club has set up a tribute book for Nat and is keen for all members to sign this.

This will be left at the club tonight (Thursday).

Nat leaves his wife Maureen, two children and grandchildren.

BOUNCING BACK TO THE BIG TIME

Tottenham and Derby setbacks won't deter midfielder

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertsexnews.co.uk

HAVING broken a leg on trial at Derby County shortly after being released by Spurs, you could say Harlow's Danny Norton has not exactly had the best of luck.

But the 20-year-old midfielder has been an inspiration at Rouge Return, who completed an unprecedented quintet of trophies in May including winning the prestigious Essex Premier Sunday Cup final.

Norton is now eyeing a move back into the professional ranks as he bids to reignite his career.

He wants to join a top non-league club as the first step towards moving back into the pro game.

He said: "I'm hoping to work my way back up through non-league."

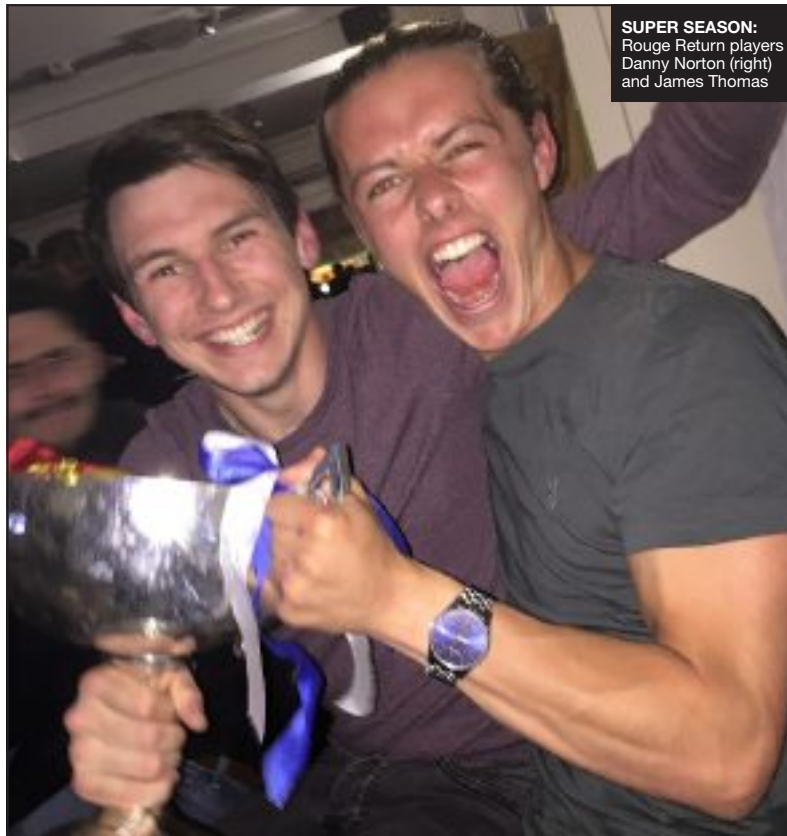

Surprised

Certainly Rouge Return's stalwart manager Peter Lucia is confident that Norton, as well as 50-goal striker James Thomas and his brother, midfielder Jack Thomas, are talented enough to play at a much higher level - he's just surprised they haven't been poached by Ryman Premier Harlow Town already.

Norton has the ability to play in the Football League and age is on his side, especially when you consider Leicester's Jamie Vardy was still playing non-league at 25 and Ian Wright didn't make it at Crystal Palace until he was 24.

Lucia said: "Norton was at Spurs for eight years, but they had him at right-back. He was released at 16. He went on Derby on trial but broke his leg."

Norton has been on an emotional roller coaster but has been in sensational form this season for Rouge, playing the best football of his career.

"He now wants to be a professional footballer. He has got stronger and stronger. He is determined. I can see big things for Danny," said Lucia.

"A few of the boys can play much higher. Harlow Town should be playing these boys - that's the frustrating thing. There are quite a few boys who could play in the Ryman League."

Lucia, meanwhile, wants his side, who play at Paringdon Sports Club, to become the first Harlow team to retain the Essex Premier Sunday Cup next season.

Only one other Essex team is thought to have managed this feat, Ockenden Motors, based in south Essex.

Along with the county cup, Rouge wrapped up the Harlow & District League Premier Division title, the League Cup, the Premier Division Cup and the Senior Champions League to win a record-breaking five trophies.

They were the first Harlow team to win the coveted Essex Cup since Maypole Sports in 1996.

Lucia said: "We want to try and emulate what we have done this season and retain the county cup. That's the goal. We want to bring some more youngsters in - they will want to play for the county cup winners. You want to play for the best team around."

"To win 40 out of 40 and five trophies, it's a massive achievement whatever standard you play at."

Striker James Thomas took his tally to 50 goals in the final league match.

Lucia, 53, said in his 20+ years in management he had not known a striker net so many goals in a season and thinks Thomas would have nearly 70 with friendlies.

He said: "Not since Jimmy Sinclair in 1999 at Marquis Sports has a striker got 50 goals in the Harlow & District League Premier Division. Anthony James got 50 at Parsloe but that was in Division One and Two."

Lucia also paid tribute to Stuart Grieves, joint manager with him at Rouge, who is stepping down. "He's done a great job. He's been with Rouge since 2000. He's hanging up his boots, he has had enough," he added.

Kerry Walton will be Lucia's assistant next season.

It's Howarde's way to upset

CENTURY man Mitch Howarde secured an incredible upset as Division One Harlow claimed their second Premier Division scalp in this season's Dukes T20 League Cup.

A depleted Harlow were away to an almost full strength Buckhurst Hill side and produced a magnificent performance to win an amazing game of cricket.

The scores ended level on 167, with Harlow earning the victory by virtue of losing two fewer wickets than their shell-shocked opponents.

Howarde (pictured top) hit an unbeaten 100 not out in just 58 balls. His knock contained nine sixes and six fours.

He reached his century from the last ball of the innings by hitting a huge six.

Joe Riddell played an intelligent supporting role alongside Howarde as the pair shared an astonishing 99-run unbeaten partnership for the eighth wicket, taking Harlow from a perilous 68-7, to their eventual total of 167-7.

Riddell then went on to produce a controlled spell of bowling, being the most economical of Harlow's bowlers.

Buckhurst Hill replied with a positive opening partnership of 70, with the main aggressor being Hermes Solomonides who went on to hit 47 off 22 balls.

Harlow's bowlers all chipped in with wickets to check the hosts' progress but still they closed in on their target.

A tense finish saw Callum Sykes run out Aniket Patel (2) on the final ball of the innings to leave the scores tied on 167.

Harlow previously beat Premier Division South Woodford last Wednesday.

Harlow (180) drew with Orsett (179-9) in a close Shepherd Neame Essex League Division One game at Marigolds on Saturday.
